McGregor Predicts Ohio Turnpike

Extension Of Famed Road Seen

Enabling Law Chief Hurdle

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) said today he believes chances are good that Ohio will undertake construction of a statewide turnpike to connect with the famed Pennsylvania super-highway.

Renewed speculation over prospects for a broad toll highway spanning Ohio from east to west developed after Gov. James Duff of Pennsylvania recently announced the tentative route for westward extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike to the Ohio line.

Under present unofficial plans, the Pennsylvania road would swing northwestward from its existing terminus near Pittsburgh, by-passing that city and touching the Ohio border at Petersburg.

McGregor told a reporter he considers state enabling legislation the chief hurdle to be cleared if action is to be had on an Ohio turnpike.

He said he foresees no difficulty in finding a market for the bonds by which the highway would be largely financed.

But, Ohio law requires that a commission be established to underwrite any bonds issued for such a project.

A bill to create a superhighway commission failed in the Ohio legislature last year but is up for another try this time, McGregor said.

The proposed Ohio turnpike would be approximately 225 miles long. Backers of the proposal view it as a link in an eventual Chicago to New York superhighway.

Pennsylvania is now building an eastward extension of its turnpike to the suburbs of Philadelphia, which already is connected to New York by four-lane routes.

A westward extension by Pennsylvania plus an Ohio superhighway, would leave only the stretch across Indiana to be added to complete the Chicago-New York pattern.

McGregor voiced hope that some federal funds might be contributed to the Ohio project if enabling legislation is passed. But he conceded that the public roads administration frowns on toll superhighways as expensive, duplicatin road systems.

Toll Road Bill Offered

COLUMBUS — A bill was introduced before the Ohio Senate today to permit the construction of toll highways by private capital, International News Service reported.

Sponsoring the bill was Sen. Ralph Winter (D.-Lodi) who two years ago steered a similar bill to passage in the Senate only to have it die in the House.

The bill would permit private capital to invest in toll roads, the necessary bonds to be retired solely through toll payments.

The bonds would not become an obligation of the state.

Denies Flirting

GLENDALE, Cal. — (INS) The handsome, 46-year-old pastor of Glendale's fashionable First Baptist church, Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher jr., asserted today that charges that he was guilty of misconduct with 40 women of his congregation "have been proven false."

The minister declared this in answer to a law suit filed by a former deaconess of the church and a member of the congregation who are seeking his removal from the pulpit.

Mrs. Sadie Williams, the deaconess, and Fletcher E. Maxwell, the church member, charged in their suit that the pastor:

"Promiscuously osculated young girls who are members of the congregation.

"Openly boasted of having meretricious relations with 40 women."

BOOKIES WERE PALS

Not only has he "been known to associate with bookies," the suit continued, but he also:

"Caused disruptions in the marital relations of numerous families.

"Has been known to maintain a mistress and otherwise disport himself in a most reprehensible manner in violation and disregard of the rights of the plaintiffs."

The complaint went further to say that Dr. Brougher "has even recently been known to chase a lone young woman in an automobile in an attempt to force her to the curb on a dark street."

Baby's Birth Proves Shock To Parents

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Mrs. Stella Thomas and the 10-pound baby son she was unaware she was going to have until it arrived were resting comfortably at home today

The 30-year-old heavy-set baker's wife complained of "feeling bad" and went to bed when her husband, Herman, returned from work last evening. Fifteen minutes later she began giving birth.

Thomas, who said he was as unaware of his wife's pregnancy as she was, called police, and Patrolmen Louis Kunchik and Edward Smrdel arrived in time to deliver the child.

Accused Reds Seek Trial Postponement

NEW YORK (INS) Federal Judge Harold R. Meduba will hold a hearing today requiring the government to show why the trial of the nation's 12 top communist leaders should not be postponed for 90 days.

Defense counsel for the indicted leftists petitioned for a delay in the trial scheduled to start Monday on grounds that "an atmosphere" exists at this time to prevent a fair hearing and the illness of William Z. Foster, national chairman of the communist party.

MOUNT VERNON — (AP) — Russell A. Nutt, 30-year-old factory worker, was killed today when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train hit his automobile, 10 miles south of here.

The amount workers will seek this year is approximately $10,000 under the 1948 goal.

The drive line-up was completed during a planning committee meeting held last night at Red Cross chapter headquarters, Park avenue west. Assisting Chairman Bierly will be A. B. Grafton, serving as vice-chairman of the campaign, and chairman of the advance gifts division.

Arraign 3 In Slaying

Soldiers Face Early Trial

GUAM, — (INS) — Three U. S. Air Force men pleaded innocent today at their arraignment in Guam criminal court on charges of kidnaping, raping and murdering Ruth Farnsworth of San Francisco.

The arraignment was held after the suspects—Pvt. Calvin Dennis, 26; his brother, Pvt. Herman T. Dennis jr., 20; and Staff Sgt. Robert W. Burns, 32—were turned over to Guam's civilian authorities for trial.

The U. S. navy stated earlier that the Dennis brothers had admitted taking part in the rape-slaying of Miss Farnsworth, who was found dying in a jungle patch last Dec. 13, two days after her disappearance.

The savage criminal assault and murder of the beautiful 27-year-old civilian employe of the navy shocked all of Guam.

Burns took the proceedings lightly. When cameramen snapped pictures of him and his co-defendants as they left the courtroom, the sergeant grinned and quipped: "Save me one."

Odom Trying Record Flight

HONOLULU (INS) Capt. Bill Odom, noted globe-girdling pilot, was well out over the Pacific today on an attempted record-breaking non-stop flight from Teterboro, N.J.

Three hours after Odom's take-off, a PBY bomber accompanying him part of the way reported by radio to the air-sea rescue service that "everything is fine."

The famed flyer, seeking to crack the light-plane non-stop mark held by two Russian airmen, lifted his tiny, single-engined Beechcraft, Bonanza, from Honolulu's John Rodgers airport at 6:32 p.m. (11:32 p.m. EST) last night.

9,000 Indians Snowbound

Rescuers Struggle, Weather Moderates

Moderating temperatures and generally fair conditions prevailed today over most of the nation but results of the topsy-turvy weather of the past week kept rescue workers busy and California's Chamber of Commerce stifling its moans.

The Ohio prediction for Friday is partly cloudy with moderate temperatures, followed by snow flurries and colder in the north portion.

South Dakota rescue workers used every available snowplow today trying to break through to almost 9,000 Indians who were reported running low on food and fuel at the Pine Ridge reservation.

About 10,000,000 units of penicillin were flown to the agency hospital at Pine Ridge yesterday. One doctor was scheduled to arrive today to help treat the 10 reported cases of dysentery.

In Nebraska, every sheriff was asked to telephone each farmhouse to see whether the families needed help. Ranchers were asked to report the conditions of nearby families who did not have telephones.

Snowplows were edging toward the town of Harrison, Neb., which was running out of fuel after being locked in by snow since the big blow last week Forty families were being supplied by helicopter near Paxton, Neb.

Rescue teams broke through to besieged Gordon, Neb., easing the situation of the town's 2,000 residents. But 300 Indians nearby were reported in bad shape from lack of food.

The Chicago and North Western railroad said it was using dynamite to blast the 30-foot drifts from its northern tracks.

Meanwhile, Minnesota jibed California about the bad weather that hit the Golden State this week.

Larry Nelson, publicity director for the Minnesota Territorial Centennial, wired George Heinz, secretary of the California centennial commission:

"Please ship one carload of snow for Paul Bunyan's snowballs. Suggest promotion of winter carnivals in California. We can furnish beautiful Minnesota snow queens for the occasions."

Mt. Wilson, near Pasadena, Cal., was snowbound and reported a blizzard with winds of 60 miles an hour velocity. Winds of 40 to 50 mph swept the California coast between Oceanside and San Diego. But diminishing showers and generally moderating temperatures were forecast, indicating an end to the blanket of snow over the area.

Writer Held In Murder

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — A suspect in the brutal "Black Dahlia" murder claimed an alibi today but Los Angeles authorities planned to question him intensively about the slaying.

Jeff Connors, 40-year-old writer, shouted when taken into custody: "I am absolutely innocent! I can prove exactly where I was at the time of the murder!"

Connors asserted that he rushed to police with what information he had when he heard of the baffling crime.

City Bus, Cars Crash

34 Passengers Escape Injury

Thirty-four passengers on a Mansfield Rapid Transit bus escaped injury at 6:15 p. m. yesterday when a Glessner avenue bus was involved in a collision with two automobiles at Park avenue west anad Mulberry street. Occupants of the cars also escaped injury.

Passengers left the bus by way of the rear emergency door when the front door jammed. The retreat from the vehicle was orderly, police said.

The bus driver, Orville Corbin, 50, of 216 West Dickson avenue, told police he was going west on Park avenue and had pulled into the center of the street to make a left turn. As he started to turn, the bus was struck by a car driven by Max Meisel, 414 Chevy Chase road. The impact caused the bus to strike a car driven by Robert M. McLaughlin, 180 Ausdale avenue, as it entered the intersection, police said

Meisel contended the bus was going through the red light. All three vehicles were damaged.

Officials of the transit company were conducting an investigation today.

N. Y. Tugboat Men Reset Strike Hour

NEW YORK — (INS) — A spokesman for Mayor William O'Dwyer said early today that the threatened strike of tugboat workers has been rescheduled for midnight tonight. The original strike deadline was slated for 12.02 A.M. Thursday. O'Dwyer's spokesman announced the new deadline as representatives of the union and tugboat companies continued their negotiations.

Transformation of Coliseum Starts Tomorrow

2,023 To Be Served at C. of C. Dinner

Approximately 100 men will start at 6 a. m. tomorrow to transform the Coliseum from a skating rink to a huge dining hall.

A record crowd of 2,023 persons will be served in the huge hall and at the North Lake park pavilion during the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner Friday night.

The crew of 100 will work all day Friday at preparing the Coliseum for the record-breaking dinner party, Harry W. Dailey, chairman of the location and facilities committee, said.

Four large trucks will be used and approximately 20 truckloads of equipment will be moved into the building.

In addition to moving in equipment, the men will build a 24 by 40 foot stage and a 12 by 40 foot elevated speakers' stand.

Ten serving stations will be set up and 115 electric roasters brought in. The cooking of a ton of food for the dinner will begin at 11 a. m.

One hundred and 50 persons have been employed to serve the dinner. The goal of R. R. Hayes and Kenneth Strock, co-chairmen of the food committee, is to serve the entire crowd in less than 26 minutes, their previous record.

Immediately after the dinner and program, workers will begin tearing up stages and stands and cleaning up so they can begin moving out at 6 a. m. Saturday.

C. L. Van Derau, general chairman of the banquet, has requested that all those attending the dinner be at the Coliseum by 6:15 p. m. Serving will start at 6:30 p. m.

Prior to the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop will put on a routine which Mrs. Gibson said is guaranteed to put the most reserved Mansfielder in a merry mood.

She declined to announce the intended routine, but hinted the more photogenic Mansfielders are in for a hectic, hilarious, and harrowing time.

The show, entitled, "Fun Before Food," will begin at 5:45 p. m. and last until serving starts.

"We feel sure everyone will take whatever comes their way," Mrs. Bishop said mysteriously without elaborating on any of the stunts prepared.

Locked Cell Door Baffles City Police

Court officials fretted under a 20-minute delay today; three members of the city police force sported red faces; and a prisoner being removed for trial began to believe he was 'in' for life.

Hurrying to get the prisoner over to Municipal court, detectives grabbed a ring of keys, selected one, and tried to open the cell door.

It remained closed.

They pushed, pulled, heaved, and muttered, but the door stood pat. The prisoner worried.

At the end of 20 futile minutes, one of the detectives solved the mystery of the adamant door.

Palestine Peace Talks Underway

Egyptians, Jews Start Negotiations

(Compiled From Wire Services)

RHODES — United Nations Mediator Dr. Ralph Bunche opened Palestine armistice negotiations between Israel and Egypt today with an implied appeal to Great Britain not to prejudice the delicate Middle East situation.

Dr. Bunche addressed his message to "all governments" but apparently was referring to British military movements that followed the shooting down by Israel of five Royal Air Force planes near the Palestine-Egyptian border last Friday.

Speaking to the Arab and Jewish delegates who for the first time sat down at a conference table as equal negotiators, Dr. Bunche asked all nations "to avoid incidents and acts which might jeopardize constructive progress of deliberations toward an armistice."

Dr. Bunche continued:

"I have in mind not only the governments involved in these negotiations or in the Palestine conflict, but those as well whose interests impel them to keep close surveillance over developments in the area."

In Washington, President Truman received from Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador, an outline of Britain's views of the Palestine situation.

Mr. Truman and the ambassador conferred for nearly a half hour at the White House.

Franks said afterwards that he submitted "the views of my government on the Palestine situation."

He told reporters these were the same as he had expressed yesterday at the state department to Undersecretary Lovett.

Lovett disclosed to a news conference yesterday the United States had expressed concern to the British government over troop movements in the Palestine area.

Presumably, Franks' visit was a follow-up to this earlier exchange with the British government.

Overhauling Need Cited

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Herbert Hoover asked Congress today to give President Truman broad power to overhaul the government, declaring that present disorder is costing the nation "heavily."

The former Republican chief executive, chairman of a commission on government reorganization, urged that Mr. Truman be granted even greater reshuffling authority than that which Congress reluctantly gave President Roosevelt in 1939.

Under the old reorganization act, which expired last March 31, Congress kept the right to veto changes proposed by the President and almost a score of agencies were labeled "do not touch."

But Hoover asserted that "the power of the President to prepare and transmit plans of reorganization to the Congress should not be restricted by limitations or exemptions."

Charge To Top 2 Millions

Bond Issues Boost Levies

Richland countians will start paying a record $2,312,754 real estate tax bill tomorrow. This figure does not include personal property taxes which are payable later.

The deadline for paying real property taxes without penalty is Feb. 21, Treasurer Charles C. Payne said.

Only half of the year's tax bill, or $1,184,140, is due tomorrow. The rest will be payable during the last half of the year.

Payne said the over-all figure tops the tax charge of last year by $284,583.

Mansfield property owners owe $1,267,391 of the total bill for the year, an increase of $101,772 over last year.

The bill for the year in Shelby is $187,460, a gain of $17,147 over the 1948 total.

Payne said 43,000 statements were sent out out today to taxpayers in the county. He said property owners who do not receive bills should file their addresses with him, "as the responsibility to pay exists whether or not they receive their statements."

ASKED NOT TO CALL

Payne asked that taxpayers not telephone his office about receiving statements since they may not arrive for several days.

Included in the tax charges are real estate, special assessments and delinquent taxes. This collection is for real estate appearing on the 1948 duplicate.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, whose office prepared the duplicates, said the higher charge is a reflection of a higher tax rate, resulting from payment and interest on TB sanatorium bonds, Mansfield city school bonds, school bonds in some county districts, and levies, particularly school operating levies.

It also resulted from an increase in valuation, both as a result of new construction and a revaluation of property on the 1948 duplicate for some districts, Wolfe explained.

The various components making up the charge include $2,238,064 in real estate taxes, $74,690 in special assessments, and include delinquent payments due.

The Mansfield charge includes $1,216,221 in real estate taxes and $51,169 in special assessments. The Shelby charge includes $173,855 in real estate taxes and $13,604 in special assessments. Both include delinquent taxes.

Hiss Still His Friend

Acheson Defends Perjury Suspect

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Dean Acheson, nominee for secretary of state, testified today he and Alger Hiss are friends "and we remain friends."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, quickly led a hearing on the nomination into the question of Acheson's relations with Hiss, his former subordinate in the state department.

Hiss is under perjury indictment in connection with his denial that he ever gave any secret state department information to Whittaker Chambers, who has admitted he served as a communist courier.

Observing that "my friendship is not given easily and it is not easily withdrawn," Acheson declared solemnly: "Alger Hiss and I became friends and we remain friends."

The questioning turned to Alger Hiss after Acheson had denied his law firm had any influence in the state department's approval of a $90,000,000 loan to the communist-controlled Polish government in 1946.

Truman Makes 'Friendly Visit'

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Truman's surprise flying call on Secretary of State George C. Marshall gave rise today to speculation that important foreign policy decisions may be in the making. But the President insisted it was just a friendly visit.

Without a word to White House newsmen, the chief executive hopped into an Air Force Constellation shortly after noon yesterday and flew to North Carolina where Marshall is recuperating from an operation. He was back in Washington in time for dinner.

Crawford Already Has Sent 3 Youths

BUCYRUS — Three Crawford county men have entered the armed forces under terms of the peacetime selective service act and two more will be formally inducted in the armed services on Jan. 26, Mrs. Myron Melcher, Crawford county draft board clerk, reported today.

The board has a small number of eligibles, who have passed their physicals and are eligible for final induction, but more than 80 per cent of the prospective draftees failed their physical examinations, board officials said.

No inductions are expected during February and March since the Army has announced voluntary enlistments make drafting unnecessary until April.

Holmes Amish Residents Attend Attack Arraignment

MILLERSBURG — Amish residents crowded the Holmes county Common Pleas Court room here yesterday as three men were arraigned to plead to their grand jury indictment charging them with rape upon a 27-year-old Amish mother of three children. The alleged crime took place in northeastern Holmes county on the night of Oct. 15, 1948.

Not guilty pleas were entered by the trio to both rape charges and charges of breaking and entering a home with the purpose of committing an act of felony on the same evening, and at the same place of their alleged criminal assault upon the woman. Judge Elmo M. Estill appointed attorneys to defend the trio when the trials open.

The men are Mahlon Hostetler, 32, of Fredericksburg; Gene Weber, 21, of Cambridge, and John Duncan, Fredericksburg, who was 18 on Sept. 3, a month before the alleged crime. The fourth member of the alleged gang, Harry Ober jr., 17, confessed his part in the criminal act and was sentenced to three years in the State Reformatory at Mansfield and now is serving his sentence.

The four men are said to have gone to the home of an Amishman on that date and tried to get the man away on a pretense he was wanted at his work. Failing in this they commanded him to come out into the yard. While two of the intruders held him, each of the four men criminally attacked his wife, according to the story told by Ober.

The first man, Hostetler, had his trial date set for 9 a. m. on Feb. 7. The rest of the trials will follow. If found guilty the men face possible sentence of three to 20 years on the rape charge and a possible life sentence on the breaking and entering charge. The trio have been in the county jail since their arrest a week after the alleged attack.

Also arraigned yesterday on a grand jury indictment charging forgery was Lawrence Swinehart, 37, of Shreve. A plea of guilty was entered together with an application for probation.

Kenneth Scott pleaded not guilty to an arraignment on a charge of assault and battery filed by his wife. In Justice William G. Close's court Mildred Irene Fry pleaded guilty to harboring a criminal and was released upon payment of a $15 fine and costs. Harry James Holderbaum was bound over after pleading guilty to a non-support charge.

Social Security Act Aids 3,450 In Area

Payments Hit New High In '48

Edward P. Blonston, manager of the Social Security office here, announced today that monthly Social Security payments during 1948 in the area served by his office reached a record total of about $68,000, an increase of approximately six per cent over 1947 figures. In all, 3,450 persons received funds.

The area served by the Mansfield office includes Ashland, Morrow, Crawford, Knox, and Richland counties.

More than half of the total, or $38,000, went to 1,450 retired workers who were 65 or older.

The rest of the funds were distributed on this basis: $7,000 to 515 wives of retired workers, who were 65 years old or older; $6,500 to 320 widows of deceased workers, 65 years old or older; $12,500 to 925 children of deceased or retired workers; $4,500 to 220 widows of deceased workers having one or more unmarried children under the age of 18 in their care; $300 to 20 parents 65 years old or older who were principally dependent on deceased insured workers.

Blonston said old-age and survivors insurance is primarily a family insurance, pointing out that on the average, locally and nationally, three out of every five beneficiaries are women and children.

2,300,000 BENEFIT

A year-end summary by the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance in Baltimore, Md., shows that approximately 2,300,000 persons throughout the nation are now receiving monthly payments averaging nearly $46,000,000 under the federal social security program.

This is an all-time high for the program, according to Blonston.

A year ago payments were made to approximately 1,975,000 persons at an average monthly rate of more than $38,000,000, he said.

Under the Social Security Act, monthly insurance payments are made to qualified retired workers in commerce and industry, to wives and minor children of retired workers, and to survivors of deceased insured workers.

The social security year-end statement shows that monthly retirement payments nationally totaled about $366,000,000 in 1948. Payments to survivors amounted to approximately $177,000,000. An additional $32,000,000 was paid in lump sums to survivors of insured workers who were not immediately eligible for monthly payments.

Blonston said approximately 13,200,000 wage earners now have lifetime protection for themselves and their families under old-age and survivors' insurance through completion of the required number of years work in social security covered jobs. This is an increase of 1,600,000 since the end of 1947.

About 78,700,000 living persons had some wages credited toward future Social Security benefits at the end of 1948, an increase of 1,800,000 persons over the number reported a year ago.

Youth Arrested As Fire Suspect

COLUMBUS—(INS)— A 17-year-old boy—called a firebug—was held in Columbus today pending a hearing Friday on charges that he set a $500,000 fire last Feb. 6, and that he burned down a huge barn on the Ohio State university farms in August, 1946.

The fire department said the boy admitted setting fire to the Columbus North Market last February and that he confessed setting the barn fire. Fire officials said the boy—on probation for turning in a false alarm last Dec. 15—also admitted turning 10 false fire alarms since Feb. 1, 1947.

WASHINGTON— (UP) —Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, R., N. J., who is awaiting trial on salary kickback charges has undergone a blood transfusion in Walter Reed hospital. Attendants said his condition is "satisfactory".

Pleading ill health, Thomas won a delay in his trial on the kickback charge. He is being examined to determine whether trial will endanger his life.

The trial now is tentatively set for Feb. 7.

Asks Farm Job Listings

In keeping with the national program of increased food production, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment Service, said today special efforts will be made this year to place farm help as rapidly and efficiently as possible.

"We urge any farmer needing help to contact the ODRD immediately, before the annual spring rush arrives," Handley said "We have applicants available with experience in general farming, dairying, and fruit growing".

Last year was a record year for placement of farm hands in the city area. the OSES placed 83 men in regular farm jobs and 105 men and women in seasonal farm employment. In the previous year, only 18 were placed in both categories.

Rudy's Pen Pal Weds Another, He Says It's Just as Well

SHARON, Pa., — (AP) — Rudy Finamore's red-haired French pen pal came to Sharon last fall to marry him, but last Saturday she married somebody else. Rudy, 21, said today he's glad.

But Rudy's mother isn't. She said she's going to take it to court because she spent $300 bringing 19-year-old Monique Roze over here from Paris, France.

Back in 1945 Rudy's English class in Sharon high school started a project writing a group of French teen-agers. The correspondence culminated in Rudy's inviting Monique Roze to America.

That was in November. But what with church bans, writing for Monique's birth certificate and her parents' permission, the wedding couldn't take place till after Christmas.

A couple of weeks before the ceremony Monique, who was staying at Rudy's house, went to a party and met Louis Dellacroce, 29, a school teacher from Adjacent Masury, Ohio.

The day after the party, Mrs. Finamore related, Monique said she didn't want to stay at Rudy's house any more. So she left to stay with Dellacroce's sister-in-law. That was the beginning of the end.

Today Rudy was satisfied but a little bewildered. "She said they do everything differently in France." he explained.

Quit Paying Premiums

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Mason contractors association has informed local bricklayers yesterday of the termination of premiums, bonuses, and pay in excess of actual hours worked.

In letter posted on all construction jobs and sent to officials of local 5 of the AFL brickerlayers union, the association said:

Effective Jan. 17, "the contractors will pay members of your organization of contract scale of $2.37½ per hour for the actual hours worked on the job, or $19 per eight-hour day for all types of work."

"All premiums, bonuses, pay for hours in excess of those actually worked, or fringes of any other nature will be discontinued as well as pirating of men from one job to another," the letter said.

The Mason contractors association is an affiliate of the building trades employers association.

YWCA to Hear College Head At Annual Meeting Tuesday

DR. CLAYTON

Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, president of Ashland college, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the YWCA which will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday.

The topic of Clayton's speech will be "Unafraid," which also is the theme of the YWCA Triennial national convention to be held in San Francisco March 7 to 14.

His talk will include a discussion of various problems which will be brought up at the national convention.

Clayton, who has had 12 years of experience in public school work, became president of Ashland college in 1948. He was a member of the faculty of Ohio State university from 1945 to 1948.

He is moderator of the National Conference of Brethren churches, immediate past president of the National Laymen's organization of the Brethern church, and a Sunday school executive and Bible school teacher.

Clayton has written "A History of the Concept of Planning in the United States."

Reservations for the dinner are now being accepted at the YWCA. Attendance is limited to 200, and nearly 100 reservations already have been received.

Cites Synthetics

CINCINNATI —(AP)— General Tire & Rubber Co. Vice President L. A. McQueen said in a speech here yesterday that synthetic rubber from a formula, believed to be the first improvement on government wartime standards, now is being used in the manufacture of tires for passenger automobiles.

Engineers Meet Tonight

Two sound movies in color will be shown at a meeting of Ohio Association No. 29 of the National Association of Power Engineers at Mansfield Senior high school at 7:30 p. m. today.

The first movie, "From the Ground Up," covers the mining and processing of fire clays and the manufacture of refractories. "To The Shores of Iwo Jima," an Army- Navy release, also will be shown.

The program, open to the public, is being furnished through the courtesy of the Plibrico Sales and Service company, division of Schaefer Brothers, Cleveland.

Venice In Uproar Over Reputed 'Atomic Pill' Death of Gambler

VENICE, — (INS) — A story that an Austrian engineer committed suicide by swallowing an "atomic pill" excited Venice today and assertedly so frightened authorities that they buried him without an autopsy—to avoid an explosion of the "pill" within the body.

The victim was identified as Edward Selzer, described as an engineer and "man of the world" who took his life after heavy losses at the Venice gambling casino.

Selzer was buried without a post-mortem—the first suicide to be so interred in the long history of Venice—after repeated warnings by his self-described "mistress," Alsa Bassi.

She claimed that she and Selzer had been making "revolutionary discoveries in atomic energy."

Her story was that Selzer had gambled in an effort to obtain funds to exploit an invention and finally "took an atomic pill which would blow up the hospital if an autopsy were performed."

Venice authorities said the woman, who claims to be the wife of a New York millionaire from whom she is separated, has been in hysterics for the last 48 hours. They expressed some doubts about the whole affair—but buried Selzer without ceremony.

Chinese Reds Lay Down Terms for Beginning of Peace Talks

Chiang's Removal Demanded

Would Establish Coalition Regime

PEIPING — (AP) — Chinese communists have laid down specific conditions for the beginning of national peace talks, a source here said today.

He listed them as:

1. Removal of Chiang Kai-Shek and Vice President Li Tsung-Jen from office.

2. Scrapping of the Chinese constitution.

3. A mutual cease fire order with both sides holding their present positions.

4. Examination and punishment of "war criminals." Chiang heads the communists' list.

5. Establishment of a coalition government with a five, three, four ratio—five communist members, three Kuomintang and four representing all other Chinese political parties.

The communists, according to this source, apparently did not specify whether the Kuomintang referred to was the present part or the "Kuomintang revolutionaries" as the Reds classify Marshal Li Chi-Sen and other Kuomintang dissidents This naturally would be an important plan for Nanking.

This same source predicted Chiang would issue another statement in which he would resign the presidency and go to Formosa. He said this statement might be issued tomorrow.

Observers say that Nanking's efforts against localized agreements with the Reds obviously are aimed at giving the government better bargaining power. A localized peace here, another there, could strip the government of almost all of its remaining authority.

Meanwhile fighting continues here and at Tientsin, 90 miles to the southeast.

Headquarters of Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, National commander here, admitted that 600 communists attacked Tehshengmen (Gate of Victorious Peace) yesterday and got within 300 yards of it before they were beaten back.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

We Both Won This One

Blew my top the other morning when I discovered a shirt I'd put on had two buttons missing.

"Joe," the missus says, "do you ever read what you write? For a man who writes newspaper pieces all about tolerance, you sometimes show a lot of race prejudice."

"Race prejudice!" I hollers. "No one can accuse me of that." "I mean prejudice against the entire human race," she interrupts with a smile. "Why get mad at the world over two little buttons?" That took the wind out of me.

From where I sit (as I told the missus that evening), a lot of us sometimes get too worked up over little things ... little differences of opinion or taste. One person prefers beer or ale, another prefers cider or lemonade. But why criticize the other fellow just because his tastes aren't the same as ours? "That sounds more like you, Joe," she laughs, snipping off a thread. (It so happens she was sewing on buttons.)

Blizzards Up Prices Of Fruit

Meat Costs Ease Slightly

(By Associated Press)

Sharply higher prices for citrus fruits and some winter vegetables dominated the food news this week as cold weather continued in many California producing areas.

California oranges and lemons led the advance. Florida oranges reflected the climb in most northern markets. And Florida celery, delayed by unfavorable weather two weeks ago, advanced as much as 10 cents a stalk in some cities.

Market spokesmen blamed the rise in orange prices chiefly on speculative buying They said receipts were slowed somewhat early this week by rail traffic bottlenecks in the blizzard zones of Utah and Wyoming, but that fruit shipments now are about normal.

Vegetables which increased in wholesale price this week were broccoli, escarole and spinach, while those generally a little lower were lettuce, snap beans and cucumbers.

Several beef and pork cuts declined after last week's wholesale cuts. But the price trend in meat was spotty. Meat items which eased two to 10 cents a pound in Los Angeles, Washington, D. C., Chicago, New York and elsewhere were unchanged in other cities.

The first milk price cut in New York City in several years was announced by A. & P and Bohack. They trimmed ordinary milk one cent to 22 cents a quart. The reduction followed a long city investigation of milk prices.

Kisses, Canaries Have Livened Past Inaugurals

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Harry S. Truman may have the biggest presidential inauguration festival in American history. But he'll have to go some to beat one record set by a homely Republican predecessor.

That's in the matter of kissing. The champ? Abraham Lincoln. Honest Abe bussed no fewer than 34 girls at his first inauguration—one from each state.

Past inaugurations have tended to reflect the mood—stormy, sad or gay—through which the nation was passing. A number of the incidents and oddities are recalled by Jewell Casey in the current issue of "The Holy Name Journal."

George Washington was the only president inaugurated in two cities—New York and Philadelphia. At the first ceremony the "Father of His Country" sturdily asserted the economic independence of the newborn republic with a "Made in America" brown suit. It was woven from the wool of American sheep.

Washington's second inaugural address was the shortest yet—134 words. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to this pattern some years later. In his fourth inaugural address FDR used only 500 words.

John Adams was so galled over the larger popularity of his successor, Thomas Jefferson, that he left Washington early in the morning to avoid seeing Jefferson sworn into office. This habit seemed to run in the Adams family, for, 28 years later John's son, President John Quincy Adams, got out of town fast, too, so he wouldn't have to watch Andy Jackson, his bitter rival, succeed him.

William Henry Harrison drew a huge crowd to his inaugural. A month later there came an even larger crowd—to his funeral. The old hero, most elderly man ever elected to the White House, caught a cold at the first ceremony, and wore himself out dancing at each of three inaugural balls that night.

Both Jefferson and Harrison rode to their inaugurals on horseback. Martin Van Buren rode in a wooden carriage made from the timbers of the frigate Constitution. Warren Harding was the first president to dispense with dobbin. He arrived in a motor car—and he kissed the same Bible that had known the lips of George Washington. The first armored motor car appeared in the tense 1917 inauguration of Woodrow Wilson.

On a number of occasions it appears someone forgot to invite the weather forecaster. Bad weather hampered the ceremonies at inaugurals of James Madison, William Henry Harrison, James K. Polk (he was sworn into office under an umbrella), Benjamin Harrison, William H. Taft, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, who took the oath bare-headed in the rain in 1937. By 1944, his fourth time up, wiseacres were saying Roosevelt knew the oath backwards.

TWO 'DUDS'

Two of the biggest inaugural eggs were laid by a chunky man who fought the South, with a cigar in his mouth—Gen. U. S Grant. Both ceremonies were mismanaged duds. The general was so mad at retiring President Andrew Johnson that he let Johnson know he couldn't even come along for the ride.

Several hundred canaries helped turn the second Grant inaugural ball into a $60,000 turkey. It was so cold the birds refused to sing or fly around the ballroom, the food was too chilled to eat, and the canaries and the guests sat there in their feathers and furs—and glared at each other.

Another oddity: no American mother actually watched her son become president until James A. Garfield's inaugural. Garfield's first act as the nation's leader was to kiss the woman who had borne him in a frontier log cabin 49 years before. But her pride did not outlive the year. An assassin struck down the president four months later.

Perhaps the strangest and most moving induction into the presidency was that of Calvin Coolidge, sworn into the highest office in the land by is own father, a justice of the peace, in a simple Vermont farmhouse lit only by a flickering kerosene lamp. No other father has had that privilege.

But the real unsung hero of American presidential inaugurations was the late Chief Justice Melville Weston Fuller, often a bridesmaid but never the bride. Probably the one man who had reason to know the oath better than Franklin D. Roosevelt, Chief Justice Fuller swore men into the presidency six times, ending with Taft.

"LET'S GO!"—That's the signal for starting rehearsals of the Mastersingers. When A. LeMoine Derr gives the sign, 64 men get on their toes musically and make the rafters ring. Above a group practices at Prospect park pavilion for their concert next Monday and Tuesday nights.

Mastersingers Step Up Rehearsals For Concerts

The Mastersingers have been doubling their rehearsals in preparation for their two winter concerts next Monday and Tuesday nights.

With Frank Guerrara as the guest artist, the Mastersingers will present a two-part concert, following their usual custom, on each of the two nights, with a party at the Sky club for members and their wives Tuesday night.

Speaker for the party will be Charles Milton Newcomb, former member of the faculty at Ohio Wesleyan university. Newcomb, who spoke here at the Mastersingers party last January, is now living at Chandler, N.C., and travels throughout the country as a humorist and lecturer.

The Sky club party will be a buffet supper for members, their wives and guests. Howard N. Reilly, one of the Mastersingers, will be master of ceremonies.

Mastersingers are hoping that Guerrara will be able to remain for the party and as a special compliment to him, they have issued an invitation to Arthur Godfrey, radio entertainer to join the group for the concert and party. Godfrey was Guerrara's first benefactor when the young artist appeared on his amateur hour.

Tickets may still be obtained through members of the chorus and at Tawse's and Ritter's.

'Mercy Killing' Law Again Up For Discussion In New York

(Editor's Note: Holding that certain sufferers from incurable diseases have a "right to die," 379 clergymen have petitioned the New York state legislature to pass a law this session permitting voluntary euthanasia, or "mercy killings" when authorized by a court of record. A similar proposal to the last legislature died when no one would sponsor the bill. This dispatch reviews the attitude of courts and state of ficials in the major mercy killings that have come to trial in the last 25 years.)

By LEO TURNER

NEW YORK—(UP)—On Nov. 6, 1925, society women, club women, sociologists and scores of curious jammed the courtroom at Littleton, Colo.

For one week they battled each day for seats at the trial of Dr. Harold E. Blazer, an aged, retired physician who was accused of the "mercy killing" of his 32-year-old imbecile daughter, Hazel.

Dr. Blazer's trial was the most dramatic of many such hearings that have held the attention of the nation in the last quarter of a century.

A group of 379 clergymen have asked the New York state legislature to recognize the "right die" of certain incurables and pass legislation this year legalizing mercy killings by physicians. No state ever has done that. But trials show that juries usually are lenient toward mercy slayers and are prone to forgive.

Earl L. Medskers, a real estate agent and prospective juror for the trial of Dr. Blazer said: "I believe in putting to death imbeciles and hopeless cripples." He was excused.

Finally a jury of 12 men, 10 of them married, six of them fathers, was selected.

Dr. Blazer's other daughter testified that he loved her sister more than he did her. Dr. Blazer, who described Hazel as a "human husk," testified his wife was dead and that he was afraid of leaving his daughter alone should he die before her. He said he had no memory of chloroforming his daughter nor attempting suicide by poison afterward. He pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

His plea touched off one of the first major courtroom battles by opposing alienists summoned to testify as to his sanity. The prosecutor demanded the death penalty. After 14 hours of deliberation, the jury reported that it stood 11 to 1 for acquittal but was unable to return a unanimous verdict. The judge dismissed the jury, then on the prosecutor's request, dismissed the case and Dr. Blazer was free.

In 1932, James Stenhouse, 46, was committed to a hospital for the insane after a grand jury at Millersburg, O., refused to indict him for chloroforming his infant son who was suffering from an incurable brain disease. He was released after five months. (Millersburg is the county seat of nearby Holmes county.—Ed.)

America's Steel Capacity Reaches All-Time Peak . . . and Still Rising

In 1948 the United States had 7 per cent of world's population and 55 per cent of world's steel production

America's steelmaking capacity is now 96,000,000 tons per year—larger than ever before in war or peace.

This great capacity enabled American steel companies to produce 55 per cent of all the world's output of steel in 1948.

Capacity is still growing. By the end of next year new facilities now under construction will raise capacity above 98,000,000 tons.

Cost of expansion completed since the war's end and now in progress will exceed 2 billion dollars.

You have read of record breaking production throughout most lines of manufacturing in 1948.

You know that shortages of goods are disappearing. Employment is at a peak.

But do you realize that production and employment records could not have been attained without an enormous supply of steel—the basic metal of industry.

As always throughout its history, steel is expanding its capacity in step with the growing needs of the country.

Lausche Frowns On Gambling Rackets

WHILE Governor Lausche is waiting for additional authority to rid Ohio of the numerous illegal gambling rackets now being openly operated in the state, he will have plenty of opportunity to act under authority he already has to remove mayors of cities in which anti-gambling laws are ignored—as in Mansfield.

It is recalled that in some instances, during his first term as governor, Lausche did remove some mayors who failed to enforce laws against gambling, and his early attitude after returning to the office of chief executive of the state, indicates determination to proceed further along that line.

As it has been common practice for operators of gambling places to spread out over rural areas where law enforcement is left to county sheriffs, Governor Lausche will ask the legislature to extend his power to the removal of sheriffs "who wink at gambling law violations."

As may be properly assumed, Governor Lausche expresses the view that "nearly all sheriffs are honest men, but there have been places where there has been complete defiance of responsibility of their oaths."

In the matter of wide-open gambling in some Ohio cities—including Mansfield—the speed with which Governor Lausche acts in attempting to compel enforcement of anti-gambling laws may have a considerable bearing on this year's municipal elections — as it seems unlikely that mayors found delinquent in performance of their sworn duties as law enforcement officials will be regarded as worthy of being continued in a position of such high responsibility.

Work Toward Peaceful Settlement

WHILE the explosive situation in the Middle East dare not be minimized, it is vital to weigh every fact and act slowly. At its base is the ancient struggle between the Arabs and the Jews for control of the general Palestine area. The United States has already made clear its position by recognizing the new nation of Israel and supporting the right of that nation to exist.

Key to the present trouble seems to be determination of the Israeli to obtain and maintain secure boundaries while the British insist on protecting Egypt and keeping on the good side of the Arabs who have long been their allies.

The British, of course, feel they cannot tolerate any threat to their control of the Suez canal. The rich Arabian oil lands are also in the background.

The important thing seems to be to keep tempers even and work for agreement—even piecemeal agreement—rather than let a local flare-up touch off an incident which could directly involve the U. S. and Russia.

Obnoxious Practices Being Discarded

READJUSTMENT to improvements in employer-employe relations is not always easy and there is still an occasional example of the same sort of antagonism that marked an earlier attitude of management toward employes and employes toward management—which reflected failure to recognize mutual interests.

There is recollection of a time when: "It's a rule of the company. If that isn't enough for you, you know what you can do," was a common reply of foremen and other supervisors to employes who asked why they were forbidden to do some simple little thing that seemed entirely harmless, or commanded to do something which seemed senseless.

Now, says the National Conference Industrial Board, such methods in handling workers is passing out, and an examination of the handbooks of 300 companies shows they have adopted an entirely different attitude in dealing with employes, who are recognized as intelligent human beings and treated as such.

It may also be taken into account, in this connection, that as a result of resentment over earlier mistreatment, some labor organizations were inclined to build up a defensive attitude toward management, which was effective, in some instances in overstepping bounds of common sense to as great a degree as did the earlier arbitrary attitude of management toward workers.

An ideal situation, in the functioning of an industrial enterprise or business is that all who are engaged in its operation, in whatever capacity, realize the dependence of each upon the other, and that harmony, co-operation and friendliness are essentials of success in any human endeavor.

Gain By Study of Past Errors

ONE of the things on which military men spend their time between wars is the study of the errors and successful strategems of past wars. United States defense leaders might with profit read again and again the description by Winston Churchill, in his book, "The Gathering Storm," of the British attempt to dislodge the Germans from northern Norway in 1939.

In pitiless detail Churchill makes it clear that neither German superiority of air power or preparation, nor the advantage of the first blow, contributed nearly so much to the fiasco in Norway as the lack of co-ordination among the various elements of British command. Later in the war both Great Britain and the United States, and finally the Allies together, achieved the necessary smoothness of function by placing all the service elements in a given operation under the absolute authority of one commander.

While some American leaders seek to profit by this experience, others apparently want to throw it overboard and have the Army and the Navy, and now the Air Force, continue to go their separate and oblivious ways.

Looting parking meters isn't lightly regarded in Columbus, where a youth who pleaded guilty to that charge has been sentenced to from three to sixty years in the state reformatory—although the maximum penalty does seem to place a considerable strain on reformatory age limits.

It seems that the new governor of Michigan has also presented a dazzling program—on which the Detroit News annoyingly comments: "Fine, but where's the money?"

Civilian Replacements

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — It looks as if military-banker influence on our foreign policy finally is to be toned down—and high time.

That inference, at least, may be drawn from the shift in two top spots in our state department, though President Truman was careful to say there will be no change in our foreign policy when he announced the replacement of Secretary George Marshall by Dean Acheson and appointment of James E. Webb, director of the budget, to succeed Robert A. Lovett, banker, as under-secretary.

The new top officials, who will take office January 20, are both lawyers.

Mr. Acheson steps back, after a year and a half absence, to head a department in which he has had long experience both as assistant secretary and under-secretary. He was the real architect of the Marshall Plan.

This shift may become potentially more important as a change of climate if, as seems likely, it presages the eventual retirement also, though it is not expected right away, of Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, a career investment banker, who left the presidency of Dillon, Read and company in 1940 to come here as assistant secretary of navy.

Mr. Lovett, who served during the war as assistant secretary of war for air, came to Washington about the same time from New York, where he was a partner in Brown, Brothers, Harriman and company.

To say that the change in the state department top post seems a healthy circumstance is not to detract at all from the great soldier and citizen and his services to the nation as military leader and statesman.

But Marshall was, after all, a military man. As such he was a symbol, at the head of the department charged with direction of foreign policy, of the military which had become all to pervasive in formulation of our foreign policy.

It ramified in several directions—into diplomacy, where military men were given important assignments, as well as in the department of national defense, itself. The latter department has shared in direction of foreign policy in the troublous post-war era.

* * *

Results from Training.

IT ALL comes down to the simple fact that military men look at foreign policy in terms of military strategy almost exclusively—which needs no further proof than to sit here and listen to them. It is no fault of theirs, for that is their training.

Military strategy, of course has its part but it is not all. And too preponderant military influence is not healthy in direction of foreign policy of a great democracy which now has such a responsible, and also such a delicate, mission to keep peace in the world. Civilian influence should be predominant.

The strong influence of the military on foreign policy, which is obvious to any close observer of affairs here, was noted recently in the report from the Hoover Commission committee which studied the department of defense and the related security organization.

As to why banker participation is not healthy in direction of foreign policy, it will suffice to point to the influence and relation of international finance in foreign affairs, which it has been the administration's professed aim to curb, particularly in respect to the cartels in Germany and Japan, with some of which powerful American financial institutions formerly had connections.

The defense department shares responsibility jointly with the state department in occupation policy and, if anything, has been the dominant partner.

Will Taxes Be Raised?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Will my tax be raised this year and, if so, why?

This question probably hits closer home with most people than anything else in President Truman's budget message.

This much is certain: There will be no boost in the tax you have to pay on your 1948 income. The deadline for paying that is March 15.

Mr Truman is talking about increasing the taxes that apply to 1949 only. And he wants Congress to do that by July 1 Will it be done?

At this moment no one has the answer Congress will do a lot of figure-juggling and arguing before any decision is reached

But Mr. Truman is talking about two kinds of taxes:

1. He wants a straight-out tax increase of $4 billion. This he wants mostly from the profits of corporations and—maybe—from the income of individuals in the upper and middle income brackets.

2 He wants the social security tax raised and he wants Congress to create a health insurance plan, which would call for a brand new tax

The social security tax now is paid by employers and employes; and the health insurance tax would come out of your pay check, too.

How much would all this come to as a tax increase on business and the public? About $6 billion altogether the first year—$4 billion under number one above and about $2 billion under number two

* * *

Remember the Debt.

ROUGHLY, and in round figures, this is how Mr. Truman explains his call for new and higher taxes:

Take the $4 billion tax raise first—

To stay out of the red, the government must collect in taxes as much money as it pays out in expenses.

But in the fiscal year beginning July 1—so Mr. Truman says—the government should spend $42 billion, or $1 billion more than it expects to collect in taxes.

Avoiding that debt is one of his reasons for wanting the $4 billion tax increase. But he has another reason:

The government debt—built up tremendously when the government had to borrow money to run the war—is running around $252 billion.

Mr. Truman says—and most economists agree—a government should try to pay off its debts, or some of them, in a time of prosperity like the present one.

That's why Mr Truman is asking for that $4 billion to keep the country from going further into debt and to help pay off some of the present debt. But what about the social security and health insurance tax?

The government can't use that money for paying its expenses or paying off debt That money goes into a trust, or set-away, fund.

Right now employers and employes are each paying one per cent of the payroll money: One per cent by the employer on his payroll, and one per cent by the employe on his pay. Mr. Truman wants this raised to 1½ per cent each.

At the same time he wants 25 million people not now covered by social security brought within its protection.

The one-half per cent increase on those now covered, plus the tax obtained with the new people taken into social security; would add about $1,700,000,000 to the tax on payrolls.

As for a tax for a health insurance program, top officials say this would bring in about $300,000,000 in new taxes the first year and would add another one-half of one per cent tax on payrolls.

This health insurance tax money, like the social security tax, would go into a special fund.

No one knows whether Congress will meet any of these tax requests by the President.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Believe Webb Will Be 'Truman's Man'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—At a White House press conference in 1946, newsmen, knowing a new director of the budget had just been selected, asked President Truman for his name. The President hesitated, fumbled on his desk for a piece of paper, picked it up and read the name:

"James E. Webb," he said.

It was obvious from Truman's hesitation that he had not known Webb before.

In the two years that have passed, however, Budget Director Webb has so won the confidence of Harry Truman that last week he was appointed to the No. 2 spot in American foreign affairs—undersecretary of state.

As such, his job will be to oil the creaking state department machinery and fire some of the diplomatic doodlers who have been piddling away the peace.

He was picked personally by Truman for this job, and will run the state department, leaving Acheson free to run foreign affairs.

Webb will be Truman's man. As such, there is, of course, the risk of setting up more Sumner Welles-Cordell Hull-type friction. Webb, however, is easy to get along with, knows almost nothing about foreign affairs, but has had about as good an efficiency training in and out of government as any young man in Washington.

It began when a truck ran into a car near Raleigh, N. C., 26 years ago, killing the secretary of North Carolina's Congressman Edward Pou, then chairman of the rules committee. Pou, looking for a new secretary, turned to young Jim Webb, then a flier in the Marines, got him discharged and brought him to Washington.

* * *

Gardner Finds Webb.

ONE YEAR later, another North Carolinian, the late ex-Governor Max Gardner, came to Washington to set up a law firm. Max was looking for a man with Washington know-how to join his firm, and at 6 o'clock one morning sat up in bed to tell his law partner, Fred Morrison, that Jim Webb was the man.

"Don't you think you'd better talk to Congressman Pou before you take away his secretary?" suggested Morrison.

"No," replied Max, who came from western North Carolina. "I understand these eastern North Carolinians. They pay a man $2,500 a year and want to keep him for life. I'm going to talk to Jimmy first."

He did—with the result that young Webb joined the Gardner law firm.

A year or so later, after Jim Farley had cancelled the air mail contracts, the Gardner law firm represented the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, including Sperry Gyroscope, which brought Webb in contact with another North Carolinian, Tom Morgan, head of Sperry.

Morgan, an eastern North Carolinian, decided to do what Max Gardner had done to Congressman Pou. He grabbed Jimmy Webb as his assistant. For the next seven years, therefore, Webb worked as an executive of Sperry Gyroscope, until in 1943 he rejoined the Marines.

Webb got out of the Marines in 1945, by which time his old friend Max Gardner had been appointed undersecretary of the treasury, and Max persuaded Webb to return to government as his assistant.

Later Max sold Webb to Truman as the best man to handle the intricate job of director of the budget. Truman acted on the recommendation without meeting Webb—and that was why he fumbled on his desk and didn't know Webb's name.

Note — As undersecretary of state, Webb's policies will be on the conservative side. As Director of the Budget, he put Universal Military Training ahead of aid to education. And, despite President Truman's vigorous election campaign for health and social welfare, Webb recently chopped every cent for health out of the Alaskan budget.

* * *

Conference Advised.

ALBERT GOSS, master of the National Grange, had some interesting advice for President Truman when he called at the White House the other day.

"The time has come, Mr. President," said Goss, "for business, labor and agriculture to quit thumbing their noses at each other if we are to survive these trying times of mounting debt and threats of war. The leaders of all three groups must sit down around the table and start pulling together as a team to keep our democratic system functioning."

Truman said he thought the idea of a conference among business, labor and farm leaders was a good one, and promised to think it over.

* * *

More Democrats Now.

INAUGURAL Committee Chairman Melvin Hildreth was telling the President about the huge demand for tickets for the inaugural ceremonies.

"Never in history has an inaugural stimulated such tremendous popular support and enthusiasm," said Hildreth. "The people are as enthusiastic now as they were the day after your election."

"The answer may be, Mel," grinned Truman, "that there are a lot more Democrats than there used to be."

Washington Calling

Factors In GOP Failure

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE Republican party is like a Balkan government-in-exile. It has been out of power so long that a whole series of claimants have developed their separate and special claims.

On the outermost edge are the royalty and aristocracy that were driven out first. Nothing that has happened has changed their view one iota. They fully intend some day to impose the crown and the scepter.

The Republicans in this classification are both male and female. The prize specimens are the billowy ladies who appear on the platform wearing more orchids between the neck and what might be called the waist than anyone had hitherto believed possible.

The male type of Republican royalty is well illustrated by Sen. Homer E. Capehart, of Indiana. Indiana, interestingly enough, has produced another good specimen in Rep. Charles A. Halleck. John Taber of New York, who might at first seem to belong to this same rank, occupies a lonely, lofty place as the venerable archduke of the colony of exiles.

These men are now saying exactly what they have been saying for the past 16 years — stop government spending. Their immediate target is President Truman's budget calling for expenditure in the coming fiscal year of $41,900,000,000

Unquestionably, many things are wrong with that budget. It hardly could be otherwise in a program so vast and calling for such a prodigious expenditure of money.

But it is not enough merely to parrot the word economy. To win acceptance, the critics must be able to say where and how cuts should be made. The major fault of Halleck, Taber & Co. was that during their brief return to the promised land from 1946 to 1949 they used the crude meat-axe technique on budget requests.

Any economy was good so long as money was saved. Thus they pared a slice off the state department budget for the current year and did a great deal of minor damage to effect a negligible saving.

* * *

What Can Be Done?

AFTER this royalty and aristocracy, who go on repeating the happy slogans of the past, come another circle of claimants They might be compared to the agrarian reformers who also have been long in exile from the Kingdom of Graustark.

These exiles — a splendid example is Sen. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire — are by comparison uncompromising realists. They always have understood that it would not be possible to go back to Graustark with the archduke and the ladies of the court and all their orchids.

They favor moderate, reasonable reforms that would, first, make a return to power conceivable, and, second, make it possible to govern once they were in power.

Meanwhile, of course, the world does not stand still and the position of these moderates tends to recede further and further into the past.

At the end of this month the Republican national committee will meet at Omaha, Nebraska. Omaha would seem to be the farthest periphery of exile, since Nebraska was one of the few midwestern states that stayed loyal to the cause on Nov. 2.

What the committee, which contains in uneasy unbalance most of the elements contending for the right to lead the way back to Graustark, can do is hard to see.

Something certainly needs to be done if the second of our two major parties is to function effectively. And it is hardly enough to wait for time to take its course, since exiles never seem to surrender their blind allegiance to the past.

The rich shouldn't be going around with plenty of hair while the rest of us are as bald as bats. This is an important issue and it's getting more so. Baldness is spreading rapidly under the strains and worries of modern life and the complex remedies.

Dark Glasses; Why Worn.

An AP dispatch from Capetown asks Hollywood to take note that a local medical authority finds dark glasses are a refuge of the neurotic, and that wearing them is often a sign of an unwillingness to take a proper view of the world or to avoid its appraising gaze.

A somewhat different impression prevails in press circles, where it has come to be assumed that dark glasses, worn in hotel lobbies or in dim sunlight, are a sign the wearer hopes gossip columnists will mention that he or she is in town incognito. Farmer's Diary

A Contented Farmer

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE BOYS and I were loading on a trailer load of cobs at the village elevator. They were damp, just right for quick decay and mulching purposes. A farmer was waiting too, for his grist to be ready . . . a round-faced elderly man with contented eyes.

"Come over to my car," he suggested presently. "I'll show you some real dry corn!"

He hurriedly opened his rear door, pulled the loop on the string that tied a bag of yellow ear corn, and pridefully spread the broad mouth open. Nine long ears lay side by side. They were dry and hard, perfectly formed, a pretty sight.

"Hybrid?" I asked.

"No, I never raise hybrid. This is open pollinated. I tried some hybrid that a neighbor gave me, one year, but the yield wasn't any better than my own, and it didn't ripen—grew too heavy, even on the upland."

"How big is your farm?"

"Just sixty acres it's enough. I've raised six girls and two boys there—done all my own farming, and enjoyed it."

"Were you always a farmer?"

"Before I married, I was a railroad man. The farm was my wife's parents'. It's more fertile now than 'twas when we began—the house, of course, isn't new nor up-to-date. But through the years we've done a lot of living there and it's home every day. The man who would offer us more'n it's worth—I hope will never come to see me."

His grist was soon ground and he left. "Smells like rain," he said, waving a hand. He seemed delighted at the idea, as if some vital power had entered into his consciousness.

Later on, that day, when the rain began, I thought of this farmer's fine prosperity.

"Who loves the rain, and loves his home,
And looks on life with quiet eyes,
Him will I follow through the storm
And at his hearthfire keep me warm,
Nor heaven nor hell shall that soul surprise.
Who loves the rain and loves his home,
And looks on life with quiet eyes . . ."

Forrestal Asks Global Missions

Bares Military Plan to Senators

WASHINGTON — AP) — Secretary of Defense Forrestal wants authority to send U.S. Military missions to all parts of the world, wherever they may serve the country's global interest.

Senators learned of Forrestal's project yesterday as the Senate Armed Services committee held a closed-door organization session. They related it to the over-all American plan for setting up road blocks against communist expension.

At the same time air power advocates were promised a chance in the House to defend the idea of a 70-group air force in the face of President Truman's plan to aim at a lower goal.

Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), who will be chairman of the House Armed Services Committee in the 81st Congress, made the offer. He said at the same time that top men of the army, navy and air force will be called in to make their own bids for the funds which the president has proposed to divide almost equally among them.

The military missions plan topped a long list of legislation that Secretary Forrestal will ask for the defense establishment.

A military mission usually includes officers, technicians, and experts but no regular organized units. During the recent war, broad authority existed to send these missions anywhere.

Forrestal informed Senators that three types of military missions should be authorized:

1. General military assistance.
2. An inter-American cooperation plan "which in effect would be a military assistance bill for the American republics."
3. Authorization for missions "to fit the pattern of global interests."

THREE GUEST SPEAKERS TALK TO STUDY CLUBS

Child Research Forum, Child Guidance Club And Child Conservation Club Hear Program.

THE CAUSES and Results of Divorce" were outlined in a most interesting manner to members of the Child Conservation club, the Child Guidance club, and the Child Research Forum Wednesday night at a joint meeting of the groups in Prospect park pavilion.

Speakers at the forum meeting were Dr. Alan Adam, Mansfield psychiatrist, George W. Biddle, attorney, and Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of First Presbyterian church.

The group was told by Mr. Biddle that 60 per cent of all legal work in the city of Mansfield involves divorce cases, with such proceedings having increased from 135 cases in 1935, to a total of 451 cases handled in the past twelve-month period.

He attributed this increase to financial insecurity and the lack of housing which has resulted in more than one family occupying the same home.

Dr. Adam told the group that divorces could be the result of three factors, emotional insecurity, sexual insecurity and mental illness.

"Insecurity in the homes of today is due to the housing shortage, and the fact that the home has been de-centralized," Rev. Roller said. "Emotional and financial insecurity are the two main causes of the soaring divorce rate," he said."

"Happiness is not a gift of marriage, but a goal achieved," according to Rev. Roller who suggested as remedies, "education in marriage, reverence for the home, and a strong faith."

Mrs. Burke Brewer, president of the Child Guidance club which served as host for the meeting, introduced the speakers to the 45 members. The program was opened with musical selections by Mrs. Jay Chubb, vocalist, accompanied at the piano by Miss Janie King.

Following the success of last night's meeting, it was decided to make the joint meeting of the three clubs, each of which is affiliated with the Child Conservation League of Ohio, an annual affair.

Refreshments were served following a discussion period, with Mrs. James Martin, president of the Child Conservation club, and Mrs. John Enderle of the Child Research Forum, presiding at the serving table.

Mrs. Gale Rickle, friend of the couple, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gray satin dress with black accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

After the wedding the couple left for a trip through southern Kentucky and Indiana.

Montreal is the financial and commercial heart of Canada and Quebec represents the old world of the country. Both French and English are taught in the schools. Jane Williams Tells B. and P. W. Members of Novel Writing

MORE than sixty Mansfield women, members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's club, were told of the years of preparation, thought and hard work involved in turning out a novel which pleases the literary public, when Jane Williams, Mansfield's newest authoress, spoke to the group in the clubroom at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday night.

The author of "No Other Star" told the women in her inimitable manner, how the idea of writing a book had been uppermost in her mind since she launched her newspaper career in her home town of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, a number of years ago.

She revealed that one of the most often-asked questions regarding the novel has been, did the author ever know a man like the fascinating, but thoroughly devilish character, Kirby Storm, around whose life the story centers. She told the group her answer is an emphatic "no."

Mrs. Williams also revealed to the group that the possibility exists for the book to be purchased for the movies, which will fulfill the hopes she had when writing the novel, that the role of "Lib-Lee" might eventually be portrayed on the screen by an actress with the dramatic abilities of Joan Fontaine, whose personality formed the background of Mrs. Williams' characterization.

Mrs. Williams was introduced by Miss Margaret Wheeler and her address was preceded by talks by Miss Carrie Beal, supervisor of nurses at General hospital; Miss Marvel Cowell, secretary at the Ohio Brass company, and Mrs. Marjorie Comer of the juvenile court.

Following the dessert luncheon, Mrs. Ruth Isham, pianist, and Miss Betty Lewis, vocalist, entertained the group. Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Miss Dorotha Garver.

During the business session which followed, plans were made for an emblem breakfast for the members on Feb. 13 at 9 a. m. in the Mansfield Leland hotel, and the 25th anniversary celebration of the founding of the Mansfield club which will be an event of March 9 in the hotel.

Mrs. William Clauss, president of the club, presided.

Close friends hear that screen actor George Sanders and glamorous red-headed Sari Gabor Hilton have "indefinitely postponed" all wedding plans . . . But David O. Selznick and Jennifer Jones would like to say "I do" on St. Valentine's day, if their careers permit.

The day after Lisette Ruegg's fabulous jewels were stolen, Cartier's phoned an insurance company to put a binder on a $150,000 diamond necklace that a customer had just bought, and was told "Thanks very much, but no thanks." The reason was said to be not only the Ruegg robbery, but a wave of similar crimes that have gone unreported in the press although the insurance companies are aware of them.

The number of performers in "Fifth Avenue"—the revue opening this week—who aren't speaking to each other is staggering. Carol Bruce gave a New Year's Eve party in Boston during the try-out, for instance, and the only identifiable member of the cast present was Joyce Matthews.

The "Miranda" controversy will give Americans a big laugh when it hits the public prints in February. "Miranda" is an English picture about a mermaid—very funny and harmless, according to those who've seen the print. But the U. POT ROAST WITH CARAWAY NOODLES

What could be finer for a winter meal than a tender, juicy pot roast served with caraway noodles and diced carrots? This particular pot roast is a blade bone cut, but an arm or round bone roast or a rump roast are equally desirable for pot-roasting. Be sure to cook the roast in a small amount of water or other liquid uutil it is fork-tender—about 30 to 40 minutes per pound. If you have a pressure saucepan, you'll want to use it.

The noodles have been cooked, buttered, and sprinkled with a small amount of caraway seeds for added flavor. You'll like the caraway-noodle combination with the delicious pot roast gravy. The vegetable here is diced carrots, so the color of the platter is particularly delightful.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, January 14

A RATHER precarious state of affairs is read from the dominant planetary aspects on this day. A reckless, extravagant and wasteful course of action could have disagreeable reactions on the health, prestige, credit and social as well as business solidarity. There are elements of trickery and duplicity undermining the position, funds and ambitious objectives of every connection. A watchful and thrifty plan of action might circumvent serious loss, regrets and sinister involvements. Protect family affairs, career and professional standing.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be at the threshold of a critical period, with the standing, finances, property and professional integrity victimized by over-indulgence or other form of irresponsibility. An undercurrent of trickery, fraud, craft and other sinister involvements could have most unhappy or tragic reactions on health, prestige, family, or career, position and stability. Keep alert to all forms of subtlety, intrigue and reckless indulgence.

A child born on this day may find it difficult to curb extravagant and indulgent tendencies, subsisting it to graft, suspicion, forfeiting support of family.

Time to End Bipartisan Foreign Policy Secrecy

General Marshall was Secretary of State for the critical two years during which the country had to get along with a Democratic administration and a Republican congress. President Truman's appointment of Marshall saved the country and the world from what could otherwise have brought about an irreparable disaster. It took the main issues of foreign policy out of the party speak, in trust, while the two parties squared off for the election of 1948.

General Marshall's great fame and his invulnerable reputation for disinterestedness averted the constitutional crisis which has followed other wars. But for him the struggle between the Truman administration and the Eightieth Congress would have extended to foreign affairs. His appointment made it possible for the public-spirited leaders of both parties to collaborate. It made it politically dangerous (as the elections showed) for the partisan-minded not to collaborate.

Thus George Marshall rendered a service unique in modern American constitutional history.

Even if his health had permitted him to continue, the election — provided it was decisive one way or the other — was bound to bring to an end the abnormal situation in which he performed his unique service. Had the Republicans won both the presidency and the congress, the secretary of state would have been a Republican. Since the Democrats have won both, the secretary of state was bound to be a Democrat. Fortunately he will be a thoroughly experienced public servant.

For the conduct of foreign affairs cannot long be confided to any one who is not directly accountable to the president and through him to the people. In 1947-48 the appointment of a great individual, outside the party system, was an indispensable expedient. But it was an artificial expedient — workable and desirable only in order to avert the paralysis of a divided government.

It is not healthy in the long run to treat foreign policy as something separate from the normal process of Democratic government and of party responsibility. There are no statesmen wise enough, and no experts who are expert enough, to make decisions of life and death when they are artificially insulated from the give and take of general debate.

An unavoidable result is to thrust excessive power upon men who are not accountable to congress or to the people, who are often unknown to the public, who decide questions of great moment without having to explain or justify their decisions, without themselves being aware of all the consequences and ramifications of what they decide.

RETURN TO NORMAL

A return to the normal methods of government was certain to follow a decisive election. It has its obvious dangers For while the congress is now overwhelmingly committed to the idea of our responsibility as a great power, there are many unconverted and unreconstructed men left. There are many who lack the experience to debate freely, but responsibly, the great issues which must arise even among men who are agreed on our vital interests and our main purposes But these are risks which must be taken and dealt with as they arise.

They will be dealt with best, it seems to me, if the system of bipartisan collaboration is gradually and judiciously transformed into one where a responsible administration has to deal with a responsible opposition — both loyally committed to the same national purposes.

Opposition is an organic part of our system of government. The function of opposition cannot be left on the one hand to the Wherrys and the Tabers, or on the other to Henry Wallace It needs to be performed by men like Vandenburg, Taft, Lodge, and Dulles It should be performed by them as men whose public spirit is beyond argument —that is to say by putting them in full current and immediate possession of all the information on which administration policy is based

Though they should be consulted in advance, that should not imply that bipartisan compromises must be agreed to in advance, that the administration may not make its own decisions, that they may not freely and openly criticize the decisions.

The bipartisan system of the last four years was necessary in the circumstances But we need not regret that the circumstances have changed. Useful, indeed indispensable as it was, it had its grave disadvantages.

Can it really be said, for example, that Senator Vandenberg participated in the formation of our German policy—the crux of our whole European policy? He was often consulted, to be sure. But it is one thing to be consulted just before or just after some critical decision is taken; it is quite another thing to share the responsibility from the outset in all the steps which lead up to and may compel the decision. Yet the effect of the bipartisan system has been to prevent discussion and debate, indeed to prevent the American public from being adequately informed, on the momentous business of our German policy.

I for one do not think it safe or wise that what the American people know of the German situation should be so limited as to what comes out of the official briefings in Berlin, Frankfurt, the State department and the Pentagon, that there should be so great a discrepancy between the knowledge available to the general public and what the best informed insiders say to each other or say off the record.

Metered Permits Account For Decline

Postal Revenue Up; Stamp Sales Off

Although Mansfield's post office had a record year in 1948 with total receipts of $601,373 topping the 1947 figure by $59,318 stamp sales were off $350,320 compared with $363,906 in 1947.

However, Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford said this decrease was more than balanced by the increase in both metered and non-metered permit matter.

Revenue from stamp sales last year amounted to $350,320 as compared with $463,906 in 1947.

Postage-metered permit matter for 1948 totaled $207,629, an increase of $57,835 over 1947. Non-metered permit matter in 1948 showed an increase of $14,829 over the previous year with a total of $37,595 in 1948.

Ford explained the decrease in stamp sales was due to the fact that an increased number of business and industrial firms obtained metered and non-metered permits in 1948. During 1947 these firms purchased stamps at the post office instead of using permits.

Excess from sales of stamped paper, second class postage, miscellaneous receipts, box rents, and non-metered application fees also showed an increase during 1948.

The total amount of fees, postal orders, notes and certificates, issued and paid during 1948 was $4,364,380, compared with $3,614,706 in 1947.

MONEY ORDERS GAIN

The largest single increase in this group was in domestic money orders paid with $1,277, 814 in 1948, compared with $871,685 in 1947. Domestic money orders issued in 1948 totaled $1,986,610, an increase of $254,150 over 1947.

Postal savings deposited in 1948 showed an increase with $484,031 last year, compared with $440,081 in 1947. Postal savings withdrawn in 1948, however, were $8,003 less than in 1947 when $406, 617 were withdrawn.

Total cancellations of first class and third class pieces dispatched, exclusive of metered mail, were 12,414,660 in 1948, an increase of 1,013,204 over 1947.

There were increases in the number of domestic money orders issued, domestic money orders paid, postal notes paid, postal savings certificates issued, postal savings certificates paid, special delivery articles delivered, paid domestic registered mail, domestic insured articles, domestic COD articles, sacks of parcel post dispatched, and outside pieces of parcel post dispatched.

Indict Customer In 'Hot Meat' Trials

COLUMBUS, —(INS)— Franklin County Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett had an indictment today against the man he termed the "biggest customer" of a "hot meat" ring at Columbus.

Andrew J. Di Loreto, operator of a Columbus restaurant, is accused on seven counts of receiving and concealing $1515 worth of meat stolen from the Swift and company packing plant.

Soil Conservation Reaches New Record

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The agriculture department said today that permanent soil conservation measures were applied to 21,567,000 acres in fiscal 1948, breaking all previous records in this field.

Chief H. H. Bennett of the Soil Conservation service said in his annual report that if present efforts are sharply increased soil erosion problems can be completely controlled in 20 to 30 years.

Ebright Adds Staff Member

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Archer E. Reilly of Columbus, who was research secretary for former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, joined the staff of State Treasurer Don H. Ebright yesterday as "assistant to the treasurer."

The hiring of Reilly, a master of speech writing, was generally understood to be Ebright's first step in a still unannounced campaign for the 1950 Republican nomination for governor.

The new assistant formerly was a member of the political science faculty of Ohio State university, where he received both his bachel's and master's degrees. He still serves on the staff of Franklin university.

Welfare Unit In Crawford Elects Staff

Manzer Retained As President

GALION — Arthur Manzer was re-elected president of the Crawford County Child Welfare Board which held its reorganization meeting yesterday, in its offices at the Childrens' Home at the west edge of Galion.

Elmer Krauter of Bucyrus was re-elected vice-president. Other members include Mrs Leo Scanlon of Crestline, E C Hartwell of Bucyrus, and Mrs Emma Fike of New Washington

Four members of the board are appointed by the county commissioners for four-year terms, and the fifth member is appointed by the juvenile and probate judge to serve during the pleasure of her office

Manzer, whose team expired Dec. 31, 1948, was reappointed by the commissioners Jan. 1, 1949, for the ensuing four-year term.

During 1948, the Child Welfare Board collected $12,000 from working parents for the support of children cared for in the county institution, bringing the per capita cost to the taxpayer considerably below the state average

State Fair Managers List Officer Elections Today

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Nearly one thousand delegates to the Ohio State Fair Managers' convention here were to elect officers today and consider two resolutions aimed at easing their financial burdens.

The meetings opened yesterday with gawdy amusement company posters lending a carnival air to the convention hotel lobby.

Primary accomplishment during the first day of the two-day assembly, was the announcement of tentative fair dates by A. W. Marion, the new agricultural director, who set the State Fair for Aug. 27 to Sept. 2.

Association spokesmen gave Lawrence P. Lake of Hamilton county an inside track for the group's presidency. A retiring vice president, he would succeed E. W. Lampson, publisher of the Jefferson Gazette.

The two resolutions drawn up yesterday ask the state to double its $1,500 to $2,000 grants to county and independent fairs, and request the counties to lift their $10,000 maximum aid for fair buildings.

Here's the list of fair dates as announced.

Delaware county at Delaware, Sept. 19-23; Fairfield at Lancaster, Oct. 11-15; Fayette, Washington C. H., July 26-30; Hocking, Logan, Sept. 21-24; Knox, Mt. Writers' Efforts Seldom Equal Clarity Achieved By Children

All children are natural writers, because they are natural talkers.

Words are wonderful and new to them. They let the words collide—and strange and splendid images are born. All children do this, even the dullest.

Writers sometimes complain that Chaucer and Shakespeare had an advantage because they wrote at a time when the English language was fresh. They say a writer has it tougher now because he has to labor to avoid literary cliches.

But no child ever talks in hackneyed terms. Not until he has been put through the wringer of education. To him the English language is as fresh and powerful as it was to Chaucer and Shakespeare, and he uses it as boldly.

This spreading immortal language of ours, the greatest tongue the world has known—it will always be fresh and new to the writer who dares to bend it to his needs with a child's freedom.

★

Let me give a borrowed example of the child's matchless gift of imagery. Columnist Frank Farrell published it recently in the New York World-Telegram.

A radio producer's small daughter spent the afternoon at the American Museum of Natural History, a storehouse of stuffed animals and bony extinct monsters.

When the mother asked where she had been, the small girl replied:

"To a dead zoo."

Ever since readying that anecdote I have been in a mood of genteel despair. A trained writer could work a month and never achieve the capsule perfection of this child's offhand description of a museum.

Perhaps every writer should hire out as a part-time baby sitter and eavesdrop on some childish prattle. It might loosen him up when he went back to his typewriter.

On the other hand he might come back and start writing something like this:

"Da, da, da, da, da! Glub, glub."

Maybe that is what happened to Gertrude Stein, who wrote "a rose is a rose is a rose is a—."

You can't depend on a child with a single track mind.

★

The late Arthur Brisbane was fond of saying that if you put three chimpanzees to work on typewriters they would in time write all the books in the British museum.

This is probably true. But they would be more likely to turn out a Brisbane editorial first than, say, a book like Tolstoy's "war and peace."

Unfortunately, there is no way to test this theory. No reward has yet been found that would induce an ape to spend that much time at a typewriter.

It isn't that apes are too self-conscious to put down their thoughts. They just believe more in direct action. They can better express their view of life by spitting through the bars at bystanders than by cramping themselves before a typewriter.

'By-Line In Lights' to Honor Broadway's Own Mark Hellinger

Friends of Mark Hellinger will gather Sunday in a Broadway theater named for him to do honor to the first by-line to appear in lights. The ceremony will dedicate a plaque which expresses the love of the people Mark brushed up against covering the Broadway beat.

The tribute on the plaque, which your scrivener was honored to compose, says: "To Mark Hellinger, reporter, playwright and producer. Gifted in two of the great modern arts, journalism and the theatre, his talents and his energies never failed to express his great love for his fellow men. In memory of his friendship, this plaque is dedicated by them with no less affection than his inscription on their hearts."

It's a great pity it's a ceremony Mark can't attend. A greater pity still he hadn't the power of seeing ahead, a quarter of a century ago, to this monument. What a laugh he'd have at the showmen who opposed columnists on the first night press list!

Anthony B. Farrell bought the theatre and named it for Mark for the most sensible reason yet advanced for titling a building: He got pleasure out of Mark's column. How many columnists get fan letters made of steel and stone and costing $1,500,000?

★

Most theatres are named unimaginatively. When the Theatre Guild came out of pauperdom with a string of Hungarian hits, it decided to build its own home and give up the ancient Garrick on 35th St. George S. Kaufman, speaking for all the neglected USA playwrights, sourly suggested the name Hungarrick or Budapesthouse. It was called The Guild.

There was a rich woman, Edith Totten, anxious to wear piece of rhyme on marble to the unveiling the lobby displayed a piece of rhyme on marbel to the effect that the theatre was insurance that the "name of Edith Totten will ne'er be forgotten."

Lots of producers are commemorated in houses that used to sprout their hits: Sam H. Harris, Edgar Selwyn, Sam S. Shubert, George Broadhurst, John Cort, Oliver Morosco, Martin Beck, Florenz Ziegfeld, David Belasco and John Golden. The most powerful of the showmen, Abe Erlanger, has no memorial on Broadway. He lost his billing to St. James.

★

Few actors have been honored. Henry Miller and George M. Cohan, actor-producers, made sure of their billing, and the honored performers include Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, Richard Mansfield and Edwin Booth. Walter Hampden's name was sold out with the building, and Nora Bayes' and Nazimova's fell with theirs.

Mrs. Bailey, Club Leader, Succumbs

Was Active In Church Affairs

Mrs. Harriet Louise Bristor Bailey, 73, wife of James Bailey, retired businessman, died at 11:38 p. m. Wednesday at her home, 523 Crescent road, following an extended illness.

Mrs. Bailey was the daughter of Dr. James and Hannah Duncan Bristor, Mansfield pioneers. She was born in the city, Sept. 14, 1875 and had spent her entire life here.

An active church and club woman, Mrs. Bailey held membership in the First Presbyterian church where she belonged to the Women's Guild. She was a charter member of the Sappho and Mansfield civic clubs and a member of the Priscillian club, the Jared Mansfield chapter of the DAR and the Mansfield Federation of Women.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Bailey is survived by two sons, Harvey B. Bailey of Mansfield and J. Russell Bailey of Wilmington, Del.; two grandchildren, Mrs. D. J. Sauser of Evanston, Ill., and Pamela of Wilmington, Del.; two nieces, Mrs. Robert Gresmer of Mansfield and Mrs. Alfred Walter of Akron; a nephew, John Leopold of California.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 11 a. m. from the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. David N. Roller officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Traffic Fines Total $140

Eight traffic violators were fined a total of $140 and costs in municipal court yesterday afternoon They all pleaded guilty to charges.

James B. Mahoney, 491 Louise avenue, was fined $75 and costs for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He lost his right to drive for six months.

Arnold L. Kelly, 270 East Second street, was fined $10 and costs for unsafe operation. His driver's license was suspended for 15 days.

R. N. Foltz, 380 West Third street, was fined $10 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way. Also fined $10 and costs for speeding were Elbert Twyman, Mansfield, R. D. 1, James P. Kyler, Jeromesville, Harold R. Stewart, Bellville, R. D. 2, and Raymond J. Sperling, Mt. Vernon, R. D. 1.

Richard G. Bertsch, Mansfield, R. D. 1, was fined $5 and costs for having an inadequate muffler.

15-Year-Old Boy Reported Missing

Police sought a 15-year-old West Fifth street boy today after the father of the boy reported him missing from home since 7:30 p. m. yesterday.

The missing boy, identified by police as Perry Douglas Carroll, 235 West Fifth street, was hunted in vain by police last night.

'Gravy's All Gone'

"The gravy train has passed," said Russell Weisman, chief editorial writer of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and nationally recognized economist, speaking before the Mansfield Association of Credit Men at their first 1949 meeting last night in Ashland.

A "standing room only" attendance greeted the speaker. Members from the manufacturing firms of Mansfield, Ashland, Bucyrus, Galion, Loudonville, Shelby, Wooster and Willard were present.

Weisman declared post-war adjustments are already under way and the uncertainties of domestic political programs on one hand and the uncertainties of the international picture, both make the picture unclear. Whether we have continuation of the "cold war," a "shooting war," or an amicable settlement color every prediction. Each circumstance calls for a different result, he said.

"The major forces of our post-war boom have been expended. Major corrections will be made this year. Booms end and recessions begin only when the money that supports the boom runs out. Easy money is no longer here. Enormous corporate spending for plant expansions, realized from profits and plowed back into business, has been the outstanding spark plug of our last three years," Weisman continued. "But pipelines are filling so that there is not the apparent need for further large scale expansion spending."

Residential construction, says Mr. Weisman, will see a tapered-off demand too, due to difficulty of securing mortgage money and because, in spite of statements to the contrary, demand has caught up enough to make homes available to those who can buy.

Public construction, at local and state levels, will increase. A survey of new bond issues passed in November elections shows totals of hundreds of millions of dollars. This activity will take up part of the slack, — the year, however, will show a construction decline, the writer declared.

Private spending is down. Buyers are not on a strike. They have been "locked out" of many markets because their income would not go far enough to buy many items; 20% of the consumers drew on their savings in 1947. More than this did so in 1948. When people consume their capital they are forced to reduce their current spending.

High taxes to enable greater public spending will not bring as beneficial results as the spending of the money by the individuals because government spends such a large part of its money imprudently, Weisman concluded.

George Cashell, Barnes Manufacturing company, vice president of the association, presided in the absence of Mr. Harry Reaser, of F. E. Meyer & Bros.

E. J. Osborne, Westinghouse, described a membership of 40 in the first year of organization as a compliment to the administration of J. A. Mintz, retiring president.

The next meeting, February 21st, will be in Mansfield. A credit panel will be conducted by Miss Edna Flowers, Ohio Overcoat company, Galion; R. P. Hurl, Shelby Salesbook company, Shelby; R. D. Mayer, Flxible company, Loudonville.

BABY DELIVERED BY PENKNIFE CAESARIAN—Dr. Harry M. Juvenile Cases Again Show Increase

The number of juvenile delinquency cases in Richland county showed a marked gain last year in contrast to the downward trend recorded in recent years.

Judge Stuart H. Cramer's annual report, submitted to county commissioners and the state welfare director, shows the court handled 149 cases in 1948 as against 137 in the preceding year.

During 1946 there were 186 juvenile cases in Richland county court, while the peak year, 1945, saw 262 juvenile offenders brought before the court. In 1944, there were 186.

Judge Cramer said there were about 550 unofficial cases in 1948. He said he believed a contributing factor was war nerves," induced by the cold war. Another factor he pointed to was the insecurity of the times, due in part to today's high costs.

The judge said that, as always, juvenile delinquency reflects adult delinquency. The 1948 FBI report will show an increase in adult delinquency, he said.

There were 21 dependency cases of children handled by the court, compared with 31 in 1947. However, the number of neglect and non-support cases went up from 54 to 60.

Cases of adults contributing to the delinquency of children totaled 45, an increase of 14. There were 12 paternity cases, an increase of three. Six custody cases were handled by the court. Previously, such cases were taken care of in common pleas court.

SUPPORT PAYMENTS UP

The court collected $5,938 for support payments, an increase of exactly $1,000 over the previous year. Fines and costs collected from adults in 1948 totaled $747 while the year before the collection amounted to $1,327.

The court ordered $414 collected from juveniles or their parents for restitution for damages in cases of vandalism, compared with $698 in 1947.

On the probate court side, Judge Cramer's report shows there were 483 estates administered during the year, an increase of 18. There were 788 marriage licenses issued, a decrease of 135 licenses from 1947.

A total of 72 guardianships was set up, a decrease of 18. There were 51 cases of lunacy handled by the court, a decrease of 10.

In 1948 there were six doctors, 23 nurses, and 48 ministers who registered with the court to carry out their work in Richland county. The year before seven doctors, 47 nurses and 40 ministers registered.

75 ADOPTIONS

There were 75 adoptions handled through the court, but 38 of these were step-father relationships. In 1947, there were 75 adoptions and 16 were step-father relationships. In 1948, 33 children were adopted by non-relatives while in 1947, 41 were adopted by non-relatives.

During 1948, 11 adoptions came about through voluntary placement by the mother, six children were adopted by Richland county families, but came from other counties, five were adopted through the juvenile court.

During the past year, the court took care of 18 crippled children at a cost of $6,800. In 1947, the court took care of 14 crippled children.

Fees collected in probate court in 1948 and turned over to Richland county totaled $14,217 while in 1947, the total was $12,972.

4 Escapers Bound Over

Four Mansfield reformatory trusties, apprehended in Delaware after their Sunday night break from the farm dormitory, were held for the Richland county grand jury today after each pleaded guilty to operating an auto without the owner's consent.

The four, heard today in municipal court, admitted taking a car near the Coliseum Sunday night a few minutes after their escape from the institution. The car, property of Glenn W. Gleason, of Butler, was reported stolen at 9 p. m. Sunday.

Muncipal Court Judge H. H. Schettler affixed bond on each of the fugitives at $1,500. They will be held in county jail until the grand jury session later this month.

Trail of the Gleason car was picked up at Waldo Sunday night when a service station attendant notified the state patrol that four men had bought gasoline at his station and left without paying. The car was chased into Delaware where police found the auto abandoned on a street.

The four held in county jail in connection with the theft are: Emerson Cain, 21, of Pickaway county; Delmar Weaver, 21, of Pickaway county; Mike Hall, 29, of Hamilton county, and Carl Daniels, 21, of Stark county.

They broke out of the farm dormitory Sunday night by removing a window in the basement, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said. Cain was captured shortly before midnight Sunday while mingling with a group of Ohio Wesleyan university students on a Delaware street. Hall was apprehended Monday night while hitchhiking on the highway a few miles north of Circleville, and Weaver and Daniels were captured Tuesday night when they asked for food at a Delaware county farm house.

Senior High Travels to New Philly Friday

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

"PEACE IN PRO football is a cinch next week." . . . That's what the man said. . . . The man being Franklin "Whitey" Lewis, the clever writing gent whose title is sports editor of the Cleveland Press. . . . Lewis was in Mansfield last night to address the B'nai Jacob Men's club. . . . But the shocky haired sports pundit did little in the way of speech making. . . . He just stood up in front of the group and answered questions tossed at him. . . . The question-and-answer period went on for some 90 minutes and Whitey covered a lot of athletic terra firma. . . . But back to the pro football rhubarb. . . . "I don't know what form the pro peace will take but it will be a definite thing after the two leagues get together next week," said Lewis. "Maybe there will be a common draft, a ceiling price on drafting players coordinated scheduling, or one league. This open, wild bidding is ridiculous. It's got to stop. The Browns won their third title this year and lost money. They have made $4,000 the first year and $36,000 the second."

★

THE REST of this is all Lewis. . . . He made many statements but these found their way on the back of an old envelope. . . . "I don't think Paul Brown will leave the pro field. If peace in pro ball comes next week it will offer a challenge to Paul. It will give him a chance to beat National league teams during the regular season or in a playoff. The Bears are the only club in the National that figures to be able to beat the Browns."

★

"THE INDIANS will be okay in 1949 if the infield holds up. The infielders are old. The same situation existed with the Yankees last year. Age caused the Yanks to fall apart. Cleveland needs an outfielder but has the best catcher in baseball. Flip Rosen may be able to make the infield. The Indians must be favored to win with the only challenge coming from the Red Sox and Yankees. But the Sox have no pitching and the Yanks are getting old."

★

"I'D HATE to be through like Feller—day in and day out he's still the best pitcher in baseball. Look, he won 19 last year and six in a row when Cleveland needed them most. His whole trouble last year was too many enterprises. Bobby couldn't concentrate on his job—that of earning $80,000 pitching. He is past 30 but when he cuts loose is still as fast as ever but his control slips sometimes."

★

"MY ONLY comment on Satchel Paige is, he must have been the world's greatest pitcher. He really knows what to pitch and when to pitch it. I would say he is 46 or 47. . . . The biggest football upset was Southern Cal tying Notre Dame. . . . Big Ten football is the toughest in the country." . . . That's part of what the man said. He had to quit talking to play gin rummy and the clock points to deadline.

Quaker Club Boasts Four Lettermen

Mansfield Senior high school's renovated basketball team will begin a tough weekend chore tomorrow night at New Philadelphia.

The Tygers are slated to tangle with the New Philly Quakers Friday night and go against the rugged Springfield Public team Saturday night in the Tyger lair. Senior high has won five out of eight games but all three of the losses have been on the road.

On the other hand, Coach Tommy Kincaid's club has proven quite a "homer" this season and may be able to upset the Bengals. The Quakers have four lettermen off a squad which won only one of 19 games last year and have easily bettered their 1947-48 mark.

WIN FOUR AT HOME

New Philly has four wins in eight games, all of the victories coming on the Quakers' "band box" court. Akron Garfield holds the only decision over Kincaid's club at home. The Rubber City lads won, 52 to 45.

Quaker victims are: Zanesville, 51 to 44; Coshocton, 57 to 56; Newcomerstown, 75 to 34; Urichsville, 66 to 30. New Philly lost to Cambridge, 47 to 53; Wellsville, 39 to 48; Dover, 34 to 51 and Garfield.

Lettermen are: Dick Heubner, 5-11; Jack Trimmer, 5-9; Kenny Grager, 5-7 and Gene Cargnell. All except Grager started against the Tygers last year but Cargnell is only a sub this season. Grager is the leading scorer with a better-than-10 point average.

NOT WITH TEAM

Jack Bates, another letterman, who started in 1948 against Mansfield, is not on the squad.

Cargnell led the scoring against the Tygers last year with 10 points, while Bates had 7, Heubner 5 and Trimmer 4.

★

Big Norb Shipinski continues to lead the Tyger scoring with 102 points while Jimmy Anderson has 99. Both players have averaged over 12 points per game.

★

Senior high scrimmaged the unbeaten Fredericktown team under game conditions yesterday afternoon in the Tyger lair. First teams of the two schools broke about even in scoring.

Louis Wants Lee or Ezzard

NEW YORK — (AP) — Joe Louis wants to defend his heavyweight boxing championship next June against the winner of a fight between Ezzard Charles and Lee Savold.

This was disclosed last night by Col. Edward Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission, who said the Brown Bomber had assured him he will fight one more time.

Charles, the Cincinnati sniper who has been fighting in the light-heavy class, and Savold, the Paterson, N. J., heavy who is in England, haven't been matched.

Savold, who lost on a foul in London to England's Bruce Woodcock, plans a series of exhibitions overseas before returning home.

Indians Get Tresh From Chicago Sox

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A veteran American league catcher, Mike Tresh, will be Jim Hegan's alternate for the Indians this year.

Catcher Hegan was a heavy duty man all through the Tribe's pennant-winning drive last year, and stood up well under considerable wear and tear. But the addition of Tresh should take some of the strain off Hegan when the Indians make their bid for another flag this year.

Tresh has served the Chicago White Sox for the past ten years, and Sox General Manager Frank Lane announced his sale in Chicago last night.

STRICTLY CASH

Lane said it was a cash deal, without disclosing the amount, and added that it would be followed by another in which the Indians will send a young player to the Sox. The Chicagoan said he had hopes of landing Al Rosen or Ray Boone. Speculation here centered around Fred Marsh, who hit .305 for Oklahoma City last year, or Bobby Wilson, who had a .255 batting average at Baltimore.

Tresh is 35. He served for seven years on Detroit farms before the Tigers sold him to the Sox in 1937. A first string catcher for nine years, he was an understudy to Aaron Robinson last season. His major league batting average is .249. He will report to the Tribe's training camp at Tucson, Ariz., March 1.

Last season Hegan had little relief, Joe Tipton serving nominally as his understudy. But after the season closed, Tipton was a part of player deal which sent him to the White Sox.

Former World's Champ to Exhibit Billiards Skill

Mosconi held the world's title from 1941 through 1947. He holds a record run of 309 balls.

No admission will be charged for the matches.

Chandler Metes Out Fines In Baseball Tampering Case

CINCINNATI — (AP) — It cost Leo Durocher, Freddie Fitzsimmons and the New York Giants stiff fines for negotiating a 1949 contract while the former Boston Braves coach was still a member of the Beantown club.

Baseball Commissioner A. B Chandler yesterday fined the Giants manager, Fitzsimmons and the National league club for violating the tampering rule. Chandler also warned that more severe penalties are in store for anyone who does it again.

Durocher and Fitzsimmons were assessed $500 each and the Giants, $2,000 Chandler said

"Clubs and their personnel are warned that future violations of the tampering rule will be accompanied by more severe penalties than those imposed in this instance.

"Coach Fitzsimmons and Manager Durocher both professed ignorance of the tampering rule. Such ignorance is not excused now and will not be in the future."

According to the rules, a player or coach must have the written consent of his club before he may negotiate with another outfit.

Only because Fitzsimmons has had "long and honorable service in baseball," was he spared being banned for the 1949 season, Chandler said

In yesterday's action, Chandler held that conversations between Fitzsimmons aand Durocher occurred without the knowledge or consent of the Boston club and Fitzsimmons was under acceptance terms by verbal agreement with Durocher, before any official of the Boston club knew negotiations were being conducted."

Fitzsimmons also was suspended for the 30-day period from March 1 to April 1.

Marshall's Not Against Baltimore 11

WASHINGTON — (UP) — George Preston Marshall, Washington Redskins' owner who has been called the chief "stumbling block" to peace in professional football, today denied he led opposition to the inclusion of Baltimore in the National Football league.

When a recent "peace" meeting between the NFL and the All-America conference broke up in disagreement, it was reported that Marshall's objection to Baltimore was the chief reason for the failure.

The Redskin owner said today, however, that he has no particular objection to including the Baltimore Colts in an amalgamation of the two leagues. But he said other NFL owners probably would oppose the Colts because Baltimore is "not a money making town."

PREFERS COLTS

"Actually I'd prefer to have Baltimore instead of San Francisco in the league as far as traveling expenses are concerned," said Marshall, "and think of the wonderful rivalry we could work up with the Colts."

But then he said the Colts have not been a "money maker" in their own league.

"Why should the National loop take on a loser when we already have some weak clubs of our own?" he asked. "I doubt if other NFL owners will want to take in more than two ACC clubs. Where does that leave Baltimore?"

Rams Tough at Foul Line; Ed Chelski Leads Scoring

The amazing foul shooting accuracy of the Madison Rams was better than ever in the latest figures on the team tabulated today.

The Rams sport a .615 average from the foul line, having made good on 88 of 143 trys from the free throw line. Jim Brightbill, who sank 14 in a row during the past three games leads the pack with 19 out of 28.

Ed Chelski still heads the overall scoring although his average has dropped to 11.1 per game. The other four regulars follow him with Gene Riblet leading the subs with 4.9. Joe Distl, third in the scoring, has been handicapped somewhat by a bad back which has allowed him to play only a short time in several games.

BATTLE LOUDONVILLE

The Rams go after their sixth victory in eight starts tomorrow night when they entertain the Loudonville Red Birds.

The Rams witnessed the Senior high-Fredericktown scrimmage yesterday after they finished their regular practice. Madison has a game scheduled with the Freddies.

Olympic Gold Medal Winners Bulwark Ohio State Swimming and Track Squads

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio State's Olympic gold medal winners are the mainstays that will spearhead the Scarlet and Gray's hopes for swimming and track laurels this season.

Bill Smith, olympic 400-meter swimming champion and Bruce Harlan, olympic springboard diving titlist, are key men in Coach Mike Peppe's plans for restoration of national swim laurels.

Another olympic participant, Miller Anderson, who finished second to Harlan in the springboard event, has graduated, but his absence will hardly be missed since Peppe has acquired another brilliant array of diving specialists that is the envy of any coach.

Mal Whitfield, long-striding negro who set an olympic 800-meter record at London last summer will be welcomed with open arms by Larry Snyder, Ohio State's silver-haired track mentor. Whitfield's return will help the Buckeye track cause considerably since a wave of ineligibilities have struck the Scarlet and Gray camp.

Ineligibilities will cut deeply into Ohio State's power-laden track squad which copped both the indoor and outdoor conference crowns last year. Lost to the squad because of the scholastic bugaboo are Bill Clifford, ace middle-distance star and former NCAA 800-meter champ. Fred Johnson, standout sprinter, and such veterans as Ed Meadow, Gene Davis, and Dick Rose.

Despite these losses Snyder believes his Buckeye thinclads are still to be reckoned with in Western conference and national track circles. Topping the list of returning veterans are Lloyd Duff, versatile hurdler-vaulter, jumper; John Murphy high jumper; Robert Wade, broad jumper; Harry Cogswell, 440-yards; Mark Whitaker, quarter-miler and hurdler; Dick Maxwell, hurdler; Matt Coker, Bill Edwards and Bill Havens in the shot put; Harry McKnight, pole vault; and Fred D'Arcy and Don Washington in the distance runs.

Ohio State's swimming squad goes into action against Wisconsin's Badgers Saturday. In addition to olympic champions Bill Smith and Bruce Harlan, Coach Mike Peppe will lean heavily on such tested standouts as Bob De Groot, Phil Knight and Bill Rhodenbach in the backstroke; Halo Hirose, Lennie Addell and newcomer Bunny Nakama in the sprints and middle-distances. Peppe's peerless diving perfectionists include Harlan, Hobie Billingsley, Les Henderson and Johnny Simpson.

Buckeye Cage Ace Leads Big Nine Scoring

CHICAGO —(AP)— Dick Schnittker of Ohio State has drilled into the Big Nine basketball scoring lead with a 21 point average in two conference games.

Schnittker posted a 21 plus average for the Buckeyes in preliminary firing and has maintained the pace in shooting for the league scoring crown. It was won last season by Iowa's Murray Weir with a record 22.6.

Ohio State players stand out on the marksmen list. Bob Raidiger is in a four-way tie for third place with a 15 average and Bob Donham is eighth with 12.5

Purdue's Howie Williams, who potted 25 points against Iowa Saturday is second with a 19 average in two games. Bill Erickson of Illinois, Scooter Skoog of Minnesota and Ray Ragelis of Northwestern are locked with Raidiger with 15 apiece.

Illini Platinum Blond Cage Ace Begins To Steal Headlines From Other Stars

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO —(U.P.)—Bill Erickson of Illinois who plays his best when the chips are down, may be the player to lead the Illini to their first Big Nine basketball title since the era of the famed "Whiz Kids."

Erickson, a 20-year-old platinum blond junior from Rockford, Ill., last season totaled 147 points, hitting 32 per cent of his attempts for field goals. But he was overshadowed by Dwight Eddleman, Jack Burmaster and a few more veterans.

This year, still competing against Eddleman for notoriety, Erickson is more than holding his own. In three Big Nine wins, which left the Illini at the top of the league race, he has been a spark and a star.

"Erickson is without doubt our most improved player," Coach Harry Combes said after Illinois opened the conference season with a 62 to 50 victory over Wisconsin. Erickson, who is 6 feet 1 inch tall, threw in 17 points that night to lead the scoring.

"I don't think there's a player in the conference who has a better fake or one who can work in for good shots with more ability than Erickson has shown," said Athletic Director Doug Mills, who coached Illinois basketball until two years ago and who directed the "Whiz Kids."

Erickson came through with another 17 points against Indiana, and against Ohio State, when the Illini again had to come from behind to win 64 to 63, he popped in 12 points. His performance in the first three games put him in the league scoring lead with 46 points.

In 12 games thus far Erickson has netted 138 points, 20 less than Eddleman, and his percentage of accuracy on field goal attempts has been an amazing .400.

Erickson's importance is not solely on his scoring. A guard, he features speed and is a clever ball handler and feeder. A "pepper-pot" player, adept at stealing the ball, he's a key man in setting up plays.

Orders Test For Boy, 9

A nine-year-old Newman street boy who yesterday admitted to detectives he stole between $25 and $30 from a Newman school teacher's purse, will be taken to the Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus, according to Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer.

Judge Cramer said arrangements have been made for the boy to enter the bureau for observation on Jan. 25.

According to Robert Hartmann, principal of Newman school, the child took approximately $25 from the teacher's purse on Dec 17 and $1 and change again this week from the same instructor

Under almost constant scrutiny of juvenile court officials for the past two years, the child has been released in the custody of his parents until admittance to the bureau.
